ARTICLE 1: OBJECTIVES

Within the framework of Erasmus+, the CLIL, Methodology and Language development and Intensive general English courses for eight (8) teachers are organized, following the rules of this mobility agreement, in order to reach the following aims:

Content and language integrated Learning (CLIL)

- What is CLIL? – Theory and Terminology
- Learners' styles;
- Strategies for Supporting Learners
- Exploiting Websites and Other Resources
- Practical ideas for classroom management, lesson planning and materials development.

Methodology and language development:

- Techniques to teach vocabulary and lexical approach;
- How to exploit the coursebook and authentic material
- Task based learning
- Learner Styles and Promoting Learner Autonomy
- Language development

Intensive general English:

- Development of the language knowledge, improving grammar and increasing vocabulary;
- Improvement of overall communicative skills and fluency, with a focus on the four skills;

- Work on specific pronunciation difficulties and expand the range of language you use in real-life situations.

ARTICLE 2: DUTIES OF THE COURSE PROVIDER

Before the mobility starts, the course provider will send a pre-course needs analysis to ascertain the teachers' precise academic needs.

During the course, the participants will receive all of the course content and material, even digitally. In case the participants won't have a laptop or a tablet, they will be provided paper copies for classroom use.

At the end of the course, the course provider (receiving organisation) will issue to the participant a proper certificate in compliance with the Erasmus+ specifications. It must include the name of the participant, the goal of the mobility, start date and end date of the course.

In addition, the course provider will issue an invoice or an equivalent document to prove subscription and payment of the course. It must include the amount paid, the name of the participant, the title of the course, the start date and the end date.
